

IT'S FINAL !

Father today I have made my final decision, AGAIN; to take the course of non-resistance, and to lie here in the bubbles of Thy Presence forever.

I shall lie here and watch and know that Your kiss has healed all wounds, and in Your Presence there is never any evil .

I shall see the waves of blessings and smile upon the beautiful faces of my friends, as they rise in the power of the resurrection.

I shall magnify Your army of angels that hold back the winds of negative thoughts, and shall see myself in Your precious hands, just like the big boys do.

I shall remain in You and know Your flowing mantel covers me to the length and breadth of creation.

I shall know all things are You and that Heaven has come to be in me. I shall see You as You are and dwell in the midst.

I shall love it, for nothing unloved, or unfinished is ever in Your sight.

I realize that You have placed all of my dominos in a beautiful row, and I shall not touch, for I understand I may not help.

I thank You for the peaches and cream and goosebumps and prickles in my head, and thank You for this everlasting grin and tears of joy; knowing you have come and made all things new.

I thank You that I am the gleam in your eye just like Arvie and Millie and Margaret and Paul.

And I rest and love and worship and whirl and buzz from flower to flower in you.

I am Thine.
