

DREAMING

The only one that existed in eternity past... the only one that exists now... and will exist for all eternity is God! No man shall see God and live, says the scriptures. The old must give way to the new.

All my crosses are created by me due to my forgetting. All is well and good. It couldn't possibly be any other way. There is a seed in me that will carry me through the long night and awaken me in the morning. I shall enjoy this dream while I wait.
