

- GOT QUESTIONS...?
- That which some refer to as the Divine Mind, is that which I am a projection of. I am a projection of Creative Intelligence and this means that infinite Intelligence is at my disposal. GOT QUESTIONS? You have Creative Intelligence that has the answers. I am, you are, one of an infinite number of projections of this Intelligence.
- There are no limits in the Mind that we have access to. Limits exist only in the human mind which is the same mind but... what is known as the “Human mind” is the use that we make out of the one Universal Mind. The New Testament exhorts us to let the mind which was in Christ Jesus be in you and me. The verse goes on to tell us that this mind did not have any problem in the fact that it considered itself equal with God.
- There is no reason except for lack of understanding that I would not consider myself equal with God. If I think this offends God then I have yet to know his true nature. This understanding will teach me that nothing that exists could possibly be anything less the equal with God since all of creation is God appearing as form. There are an infinite number of these projections and many of them are light years ahead of me in knowledge.
- They have the same Mind and are a projection of that Mind that has been expanding in knowledge for perhaps many billions of years of earth time as its projections experienced life on an infinite number of levels. Not all of those projections have experienced earth life but no doubt many billions of them have, if not more. Those that are ahead of you and I have completed their total incarnations of earth life and no doubt many have did this more than once.
- So all this knowledge that the universal Mind has gained through all of its many projections is at my disposal. Since all of Creation is of one Essence and one Mind, I then have all this knowledge I can draw from. There is nothing that can hold me back and keep me in ignorance if realize what I have within me. Have I seen that God and all of creation are not outside of me, but are within me?
- And by the way... some great news... because of who I am, the absolute truth is that there is nothing that can ultimately hold me back. Not really! The ignorance that I may have today that holds me back now, will create the cross that will one day result in me taking a giant step into the journey and at the end of the day, I’ve lost nothing, but have gained insight and wisdom because of the hell my ignorance has created. We are children of the Infinite Creative Intelligence.
- What that means is we cannot lose! We are over comers by our very nature! Not the puny little clay man whose breath is in his nostrils but you! I speak to you! God is your Father, you’ve never had another! We are NOW in the age when the ultimate level of truth is being released. What truth? What level? The truth concerning your DIVINITY! Jesus Christ who is the redeemer of the Christian faith could love man as he did because he knew theses things. The Christ... that which animated Jesus the man, is the redeemer of all men from the ignorance of their true identity. God wears many masks! You are one of them.

- Got questions? The answers are available to you. You need do nothing to get them except know that they are all within you.
- P.S. I like what Barbara once said, Jesus was not a Christian and Buddha was not a Buddhist, nor Mohammed a Muslim. It's time to drop all differences and seek those answers that can only come from within us.
