

I'LL SEE YA THERE...

When one dreams that they are flying they are. The dream world is more real than what we think of as the waking one. It's not too difficult to see this owing to the fact that in the dream world we shed our limitations. This world known as the dream world has an infinite number of frequencies/levels/dimensions. As we find ourselves in the higher dimensions we find no limitations. We are multidimensional beings and function on many different levels or frequencies of consciousness.

Whatever one we turn our focus on becomes the reality that we enter. When I decide to focus in some of the other realities that have formally been created by me known as dreams, the result is my body goes into a comatose state we know as sleeping. Thus the body goes unconscious as a result of me leaving it for I am the consciousness that animates it. Without the body as in dreams, I am not limited by it. My nature is such that I can do whatever I know that I can do.

In the waking world, I learn early on the lie that many things are not possible to me and in the innocent state of my early time on earth I cannot help but buy into everything I'm told. This, when viewed from the one perspective is not good, but from a higher perspective is part of the plan. As I grow older on planet earth all the third density education that I truly need to survive on the planet is the very thing that creates my amnesia. From birth I began taking in all the data using my five senses and this is a good thing, but it's a necessary trade off for in taking in the data I automatically lose my connection to Source.

The flesh and blood man can only function on the physical level. However it is possible for him to bring the physical into the higher dimensions which then turn the body into what is known as a light body. This is the age when many are going to experience this very thing. The reason we are free of the limitations upon entering the dream world is within the deeper levels of this world our mind cannot limit us as it can in what we think of as the waking state. In this state of consciousness as the physical man sleeps we... its consciousness often heal every physical problem the body has taken on due to third density consciousness.

The new earth that we shall inhabit will have the same freedom that we've always had in many of the other dimensions. This then that we think of as the real world will become to us the dream world that we forever have left behind. We shall know of no hunger anywhere. Unkindness will be unheard of and wars and nation against nation will be a thing that has gone forever. There will be no one living on the street unless that is of their choosing. There will exist no poor anywhere, nothing negative can make it into fifth density consciousness. I look forward to seeing ya all there.
