

That's right. This is a dream.

You're still asleep.

Any minute now, an elephant might appear behind you wearing a pink tutu and tennis shoes.

Or maybe the phone will ring, and it'll be Abraham Lincoln to ask why you're late for the ball or perhaps Oprah is down the hall, live audience in tow, about to introduce you as her new favorite author. Anything can happen in a dream, anything, without regard to the past, without regard to logic, and you never have to figure out the "hows."

Learn from your dreams, because the stuff of time and space is no different.

The above is a quote from... "Notes from the Universe"

God Is Consciousness!

Jesus taught that the kingdom was within. Obviously, he did not mean that it was within our physical frame. He meant that it is within our consciousness. There is only one Consciousness! Consciousness is what my greater identity is; it's what we all are. It's the only existing thing in existence. The nature of this Consciousness is to create thought forms that ultimately become manifested and go on to have experiences of contrast due to their forgetting who and what they are. If I understand that my thoughts become things and I have forgotten my power to create, I shall not wonder why there comes so much difficulty into my life now and then.

What I believe will eventually become my reality. Men, since the dawn of time have come into this illusion to help me remember. The O.T. speaks of saviors who come upon the mountains. These come in the attempt to awaken the sleeping humanity. The "mountains" may indicate an elevated consciousness. When my ego is confronted by greater light its attitude will often be one of "Go away, I sees what I sees and I draw my own delusions." No man can teach me the truth. they can only point me in the right direction. It is within all men and each of us can get it from nowhere else. We can speak, we can share what we see, but we cannot ever convey one bit of truth to another.

All we can do is share from our experience and the words sometimes trigger memory in another. When this happens, that bit of memory is the truth that's been there all along. If upon being born into this world I could talk, oh what interesting things I could tell you, because in the beginning of my coming here, I am still very much connected to the intelligence that is infinite. However in coming here, I am in the process of changing frequencies. This change varies in the time it takes to make the change, but it's probably quite rapid as my five senses begin kicking in.

Before I arrive, I am a soul and have been one, for perhaps millions of years, and have dawned many a physical frame before this one. I have learned that the brain does not think. It is I, the thinker, the consciousness that thinks through the brain. After my birth here, my brain begins to take in data from the functioning of the five senses. This is the forming of the ego which is dependent upon my environment, my parents, school teachers, and mass consciousness as a whole. As the brain {ego} is "educated" by the five senses, I the consciousness that have created the body, not to mention the brain, am forced to retreat to a great degree, because the brain, better known as the ego must be in control for a while. This is all part of the plan.

This is the cause of my forgetting, and it is how I the consciousness enter into the dream. To be born into the physical is to drift off to sleep. It is the dream that gives me the experience I'm after that will result in the expansion of Consciousness. As Consciousness, I formed my soul eons ago. My desire was, and still is, to gain knowledge and experience that I cannot get from the ethers but must become flesh to benefit from all the wonderful experiences that entering into the dream gives me. The story that is known of as The Fall has been given to me with a negative twist.

Actually this 'fall' takes place each time I re-enter this illusionary dream world. As a physical being I have been brainwashed. The result is that I have become lost in the illusion and contrary to popular opinion becoming lost was definitely a part of the plan. This concept I fully realize is a revolutionary one.

When will I awaken? I have set a time and place, and when that time and place appear, I will awaken myself and wake up on the other side of Consciousness. If I were to be born knowing these things, and never forget who I am, and the unlimited power I have, there would be no point in coming here, for it's in the forgetting that forget everything and this is a good thing.

{I am never cut off completely} Without the experience of the contrast of negative and positive, I could not expand, and if I did not forget I would not be limited and without the limitations I could not play the game. To play the game, is why I'm here. Jesus is quoted as saying "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free." This is still spoken to the man who is still under "the law of sin and death." This law operates only within the dream, the illusion. When I awaken, I find there is no such law in reality. “Sin and death” are illusions that mass consciousness has created and is part of the dream. The awakened Consciousness becomes aware of its eternal nature and has passed from the dream world to the other side of reality.
